It has come to the notice of the Bank of Mauritius that individuals have received phishing emails allegedly sent by or on behalf of the Bank of Mauritius. These fraudulent emails and messages aim at defrauding potential victims. The fraudsters are enticing people to transfer funds and effect other forms of payment in return for financial benefits and/or rewards.

As a regulatory body and as the country's central bank, the Bank of Mauritius will never request any form of payment from individuals in return for financial benefits and/or rewards. Commercial banks will also never solicit payments from individuals for similar purposes. Such scams should be immediately reported to the Police and to the Bank of Mauritius.
